THE STORY

Over the past 70 years the Charles C. Wood Color Collection originated and evolved out of a passion for restoring and collecting and model trains.

With a vast collection of models, Charles (Charlie) began to formulate a collection of color matches that would later be used by generations to follow.

In the mid 1960s Train Enamel was established to help model train collectors and enthusiasts restore and maintain their collections.

While he's still maintaining a collection of trains, Charlie's business has recently changed hands with the intent of carrying on his original collection of colors and the same quality, service, and selection you've come to know and trust.

With years of collaborative research and paint formulation the collection of color matches has grown to almost 200 different shades.
